

SECUREFLO GOVERNANCE RISK COMPLIANCE PRACTICE (GRC) HEALTH INFORMATION PORTABILITY AND ACCOUNTABILITY ACT (HIPAA)

WHAT IS IT?

HIPAA is a United States legislation that provides data privacy and security provisions for safeguarding medical information. The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA), Public Law 104-191, was enacted on August 21, 1996. Sections 261 through 264 of HIPAA require the Secretary of HHS to publicize standards for the electronic exchange, privacy and security of health information

SCOPE

The HIPAA Privacy Rule establishes national standards to protect individuals' medical records and other personal health information and applies to health plans, health care clearinghouses, and those health care providers that conduct certain health care transactions electronically.

There are all kinds of HIPAA violation cases out there - whether they violate the security, administrative or technical safeguards, data breaches often occur within certain parameters, as can be seen from research of the HHS reported breaches affecting 500 individuals or more. The law refers to these as "covered entities": Health plans. Most health care providers, including doctors, clinics, hospitals, nursing homes, and pharmacies

AREAS TO CONSIDER

HIPAA risk management and/or assessment can follow various standards. The standards most commonly used are NIST and HITRUST. HITRUST has a certification as part of its assessment. NIST standards are more universal in the industry.

As part of HIPAA, the areas that are ones to consider as elements of this assessment are divided into three major categories

- Technical Safeguards
- Administrative Safeguards
- Physical Safeguards
